

Simply smart devices

RICOH
imagine. change.

Our new generation MFPs and printers come with an intuitive, customisable smart operation panel that gives you easy access to the tools you use most often.

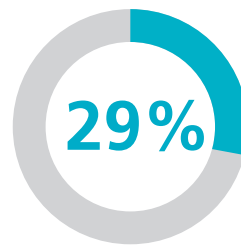

Simply smart devices

Ricoh's new generation of multifunction printers puts advanced capabilities in your hands. We start by providing a new kind of user interface (UI) that does away with confusing options and menus and can be customised with features and functions users need to get the job done.

Flexible smart operation panel

Our new range of devices come with a Smart Operation Panel that offers a simple, flexible way to work. A quick UI gives one-touch access to common functions like copying and scanning. Or for total job control, intuitive UIs make even the most complex layout and finishing options easy to preview and configure.

You can also make your panel visually unique and tailor the look, layout and content of the interface to fit your brand and business.

Intelligent user access

All users need to do is walk up to an MFP or printer, smart device or access card in hand, and near-field communication (NFC) or Bluetooth does the work of authenticating and presenting the interface and tools authorised for use. You can also operate the device straight from your smartphone or tablet with Bluetooth or NFC technology.

Apps that help you do more

Each of our smart devices is fully upgradable through an expanding selection of single function apps available through our Application Site. They also come ready to integrate with the most popular productivity-enhancing apps, and new functionality can be added at the click of a button. No technical expertise needed.
